

Paul S. P. Hsu

Widely recognized as an expert in cross-border economic and commercial transactions, Mr. Hsu's specialty practice areas include corporate strategic planning, Asia Pacific regional economic cooperation, intellectual property rights, and financial services. He also participates actively in Asia Pacific regional activities, such as APEC, as well as the activities of WTO and OECD within the region.

Mr. Hsu is currently Chairman and CEO of PHYCOS International Co., Ltd. PHYCOS was founded on the premise that opportunities for business and government relations can be identified and developed into meaningful solutions to the development of capital market, such as mergers and acquisitions, venture capital, and restructuring. This is accomplished with a thorough understanding of regulatory environments, local laws and public policy, coupled with an innovative approach towards business development. Mr. Hsu feels strongly that PHYCOS must be more than a consulting company. By partnering with a network of regional attorneys and regulatory experts, PHYCOS is able to offer its clients both insightful analysis and precise execution.

Mr. Hsu's current positions include:

- Chairman and CEO of PHYCOS International Co., Ltd.
- President of the Epoch Foundation
- Member of the Trade and Investment Review Board of the Industrial Development Committee, Ministry of Economic Affairs, R.O.C.
- Director of the Board of the Chinese International Economic Cooperation Association
- Founding Member of the Evian Group Advisory Council
- Member of the Brookings Institution's CNAPS Advisory Council
- Member of the Dean's Advisory Council, Sloan School of Management, MIT
- Member of the Fletcher Board of Overseers, the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University
- Member of the Board of Advisors of the Fletcher Forum of World Affairs

Mr. Hsu is an adjunct professor at the National Chengchi University, teaching the executive MBA course of "New Service Business Model Creation Seminar". Mr. Hsu formerly served as a Senior Partner of Lee & Li and an adjunct professor of law at the National Taiwan University.

Born in Hong Kong, Mr. Hsu received an LL.B. from the National Taiwan University, an M.A. from Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy of Tufts University, and an LL.M. from New York University School of Law.